CROWDER WILL END INJUSTICE TO CONSCRIPTS

Local Boards To Receive Orders Thru Governors To Probe Ratings.

WASHINGTON, June 7—Provost Marshal Crowder today acted to put an end to inequalities in exemptions and deferred classifications in class one of the draft when he notified governors of all the states where it is apparent that the percentages are high to have local boards re-examine all questionnaires.

Gen. Growder's action was taken, it was announced as a result of opposition in congress to the bill apportioning quotas on the strength of class one.

A number of Coshocton county registrants who were formerly in deferred classes of the draft have been put in Class 1A, and were given their physical examination Friday.

The result of Friday's examinations are:

Qualified for General Military Service: Charles B. Shaffer, Neal S. Bradford, Russell Tidball, Joseph Thrapp, Ward Richesson, Otto Fleming, John C. Dewitt, Evan Turner, LeRoy Andrews and Guy Doney.

Referred to District Board: Ben Cochran, Michael Scheetz, Clark Williams, Ambrel Boyd, Paul McCain and Carl Buxton.

Disqualified for Service: Thomas Corder.

Boy Scouts Are Feature Of Program

Boy Scouts of Coshocton covered themselves with glory Thursday evening by putting on a high-class entertainment in front of the Honor Roll at the public square. They evoked the admiration and applause of the big crowd by executing their drills in the most approved military style, under the direction of Scout Masters Tankersley and Andrews. The flashing of signals from one section of the street to another was a remarkable exhibition of skill and the artillery work was splendidly performed. The Scouts showed that they are making rapid progress in mastering the knowledge of military tactics and in the next few years they are going to be a powerful factor in defending the high ideals for which America stands.

Rev. John I. Wean presided at the meeting and delivered a very eloquent address, expressing his pleasure at having been associated with such a fine bunch of loyal Americans in the War Chest campaign. The Dawson Sisters thrilled the big crowd with their musical numbers.

BULLETIN BOARD IS POPULAR ATTRACTION

The names of the Honor Roll bulletin board are going up daily. There are two townships that have their places on the board more than half filled with names. They are Jackson and Tuscarawas townships.

There is always a fairly large crowd around the board watching the painter and watching closely, especially, if he is near the column with their initial, to see if their name will go up.

COUNTER OFFENSIVE OF ALLIES DEVELOPS AS HUN DRIVE HALTS

French, British and Americans Push Forward Overcoming Resistance of Exhausted Germans and Holding Gains in Spite of Counter Attacks

(By Frank Charlton)

NEW YORK, JUNE 7—American forces, chiefly marines, are now holding a wide front on the Aisne-Marne battle field and have distinguished themselves in the fighting of the past 24 hours by a series of brilliant dashes which carried them forward for important gains of ground.

The news of the fresh American successes northwest of Chateau Thierry was officially confirmed by the communique of the French war office.

The Americans fighting with the cold steel, pushed their way into Torchy and penetrated Boureseches, farther south. Battling their way thru swarms of bullets that poured from the nozzles of innumerable German machine guns, the gallant boys from the United States swept all before them. Altho heavily counter attacked they held their gains.

(Torchy lies about six miles northwest of Chateau Thierry. Boureseches is about three miles northwest of Chateau Thierry.)

At the same time American infantry fighting on the right of the Marines, distinguished themselves. The Germans delivered a sudden and powerful counter thrust against these forces compelling them to give a little ground but this morning the battle was still raging in that quarter with Germans falling back before he savage counter assaults of Gen. Pershing's men.

American, French and British troops all joined in a combined attack against the Germans on both flanks of the salient and important captures of ground were made at many points between Soissons and Rheims.

The task of attacking on the western flank of the salient fell to the Americans and French while the British took care of the eastern wing, capturing a village south of Rheims.

The initiative in the battle has now swung to the side of the allies. Their attacks are growing in strength and the exhausted German armies are less and less able to withstand them. It is likely that the climax of the battle has come and that the counter offensive is now assuming its definite proportions.

Minor activities were reported from the Picardy and Flanders fronts. In both zones the allies made successful raids.

This was the seventy-ninth day of the German grand offensive and the twelfth day of the Aisne Marne drive.

POLICE RECOVER $248.50 STOLEN BY SMALL BOY

E. B. Hood, proprietor of a grocery store on North Second street, had $248.50 returned to him Friday that had been stolen from his place of business Monday. The money was taken by a 12-year old boy, and Mr. Hood does not expect to prosecute. He also requested the police not to make the boy's name public.

The money was taken from the store some time Monday. Mr. Hood reported the matter to the police, who quietly began investigations. Thursday, they found the young thief, with all but $16 of the missing amount. The boy had given the $16 to a playmate, who had the money at his home and gave it over to the police immediately.

FREIGHT EMBARGO IS LIFTED TODAY

The embargo on freight going from Coshocton to Cleveland and Toledo was lifted Friday morning. Freight can now be sent to these points as the congestion has been relieved.

For about a month it has been impossible to send freight to either of these cities on the Wheeling and Lake Erie because of the congestion.

British Raid Hun Position

LONDON, June 7.—A successful raid was made by the British against a German position northeast of Bethune during the night, the war office announced. The text of the official statement follows:

Bethune is an important British rail head position on the Flanders front.

FINDS DIAMOND IN FACE POWDER

A young lady of Coshocton bought a box of face powder at a local drug store Thursday morning. On opening it she found what appeared to be a piece of glass in the powder. From the way it was cut she thot it to be a diamond. Her parents discouraged this idea but she took it to Moore and Meade's jewelry store and the stone proved to be a half karat diamond.

The young lady that found the gem did not wish her name disclosed. Neither was the name of the face powder given. It was feared that if this was known the local druggists could not supply the demand.

Druggist Is Signing Men For The Sea

In the window of the Siegrist & Williams Drug Store on Main street, there is displayed a double-page advertisement from a current issue of a great national weekly that brings the war on the sea directly home to this section, and to the store where the advertisement appears. The store has a personal interest in the advertisement also, for it relates to war work that the store is doing for the Government. Furthermore, the store helped pay for it and the cost of the "ad" for the single issue was $10,000.

The advertisement asks for 50,000 men, between 21 and 30, for service in the new Merchant Marine. In the language of its headline, it offers "50,000 jobs at sea" to clean-cut young Americans. It states that the U. S. Shipping Board will give them special training before putting them into actual sea service, carrying supplies to our armies and Allies in the fighting fields of Europe. So much importance is attached to this work that men accepted for it are exempted from a call to military duty.

The advertisement relates further, that "the Rexall Stores thruout the United States, nearly 7000 of them have been designated by the Government as enrolling stations for the U. S. Shipping Board. At these stores, right in their own home towns, young men may now 'sign on' for training and subsequent sea duty in the U. S. Merchant Marine."

The personal interest of Clark Williams, in common with other Rexall druggists in this striking war announcement is contained in the concluding words of the advertisement, which are: "This use of the stores and the expense of the advertisement are a contribution by the Rexall Stores to the cause of Liberty."

IS UNIMPROVED.

"FRITZES" OF EVERY GRADE LICKED TO A FRAZZLE BY MARINES

Allies Now Have Upper Hand Along Marne Following Joint Counter of French and Americans—Marines Chase Pride of Prussian Troops More Than Two Miles.

(By eBtt Ford)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY AT THE MARNE, JUNE 7.—By a brilliant attack over a two and a half mile front in the Neuilly sector of the Marne battle front, the American marines fighting alongside of the French extended their recent success in the same district by advancing three and a half kilometers, or more than two miles.

The Americans now hold all the high ground in the battle area northwest of Chateau Thierry. The Americans fought with more than their old time gallantry, going "over the top" whistling Yankee Doodle.

All of the objectives were obtained by 7:35 this morning. Subsequently the day was marked by desultory skirmishing but late in the afternoon another strong attack was organized and at 5 o'clock the marines again lunged forward against the Germans.

The Doughboys gave the Germans a taste of the cold steel they will not forget in a hurry.

They pressed forward with such fury that the Teutons were unable to withstand them and were completely routed.

The Germans were driven like sheep from the crest of the high ground which was under attack.

Our men stopped at the foothills of a broad plateau overlooking a broad wheat field where the Germans made futile counter attacks.

The second attack carried the Americans as far as the edge of the village of Corey (15 miles north of Chateau Thierry) the Americans now hold positions overlooking and commanding the railway that runs thru that zone.

The French attacked at the same time as the Americans and they also were successful.

Today's operations by the Franco-American forces revised conditions on the Marne. The allies now have the upper hand and the situation in a strategic sense, has been greatly improved.

An American general who talked with some of our wounded in a dressing station said:

"It almost made me cry to see the pluck and enthusiasm of the boys. They were proud of their wounds as a bride of her first baby. They smoked cigarets and told each other how they had been 'winged.' In every instance they pleaded for a chance to get back to the 'big doings,' as they called it."

Not only do the Americans now hold all the high ground of any importance northwest of Chateau Thierry but they have stablized and straightened their lines.

The French attack was delivered on the American left. The Poilus taking 160 prisoners.

The French were delighted at the work of the Americans.

German prisoners said that they thot they were confronted by British. But they were surprised to find Americans, whom they have grown to dread keenly.

The marines have been confronted by three fresh German divisions in as many days. First the Germans used Saxon troops, but the Doughboys slashed them up so badly that the enemy put in the Prussian guards. The next day the Americans turned loose again and the guards were so demoralized that they were replaced by the cream of the Prussian troops including Jaegers, the crack German riflemen. Today it was the turn of the Jaegers to "get theirs," and they did.

For several days previous to the big assault today the activities of the marines had been confined to minor operations.

The attack today began at 3.45 a. m., when the marines went forward with fixed bayonets. As the men rushed across the newly plowed fields against the German positions, they whistled and sang like light hearted school boys. As they charged up the steep side of a hill, they came under intense enemy fire from rifles and machine guns.

The glare of star shells, thrown up by Germans batteries lighted up the sky. The weather was fine and clear.

One youngster who was wounded in both legs thus described the attack:

"We were ordered to go straight

Saloons Must Not Sell To Drafted Men

Saloon keepers must be cautious not to sell intoxicating liquor to men in the service of the United States on or after the day the oath is administered to them. In Tuscarawas county the saloons are closed on the day of mobilization. The saloon keepers in this county have been warned by the local county liquor licensing board not to sell any intoxicating liquor to any men in the selective service of the United States. These men are considered as soldiers whether they are in uniform or not.

The State Licensing Board invests the local board with the power to close the local saloons if necessary, but the local board has only cautioned the local dealers not to sell liquor to selectives.

MONDAY NIGHT HERE WILL BE 'VICTORY NIGHT'

Masquerade Parade And Hanging of the Kaiser to Be Features.

A befitting climax to the successful culmination of the big War Chest drive will be staged in Coshocton next Monday night, which will be known as "Victory Night." The purpose is to celebrate the overflow of the War Chest.

A masquerade parade from Second to Seventh streets on Main, countermarching to the public square, will be one of the big features. Every contributor to the War Chest is invited to mask and participate in the parade. Plenty of Uncle Sam's are wanted. Red fire and confetti will give a truly carnival tinge to the occasion. Others stunts arranged are the hanging of the Kaiser in effigy and the burning of the Kaiser. There will be dancing on the public square and the happy outcome of the War Chest campaign will be sufficient to make it a gala affair.

Music will be furnished by the Imperial band, the Salvation Army band, the drum corps and Athey's Jazz orchestra. The twelve members of the Board of Control will be seated on the platform. Addresses will be made by C. B. McCoy and others upon the subject "How Coshocton County Can Fill a War Chest."

Last Monday night was celebrated as the opening of the drive; next Monday night a jollification of even greater proportions is expected, altho the parade will be shorter. It will mark the close of the greatest and most successful undertaking in the history of the county.

Saturday evening Hon. William Green, former senator from Coshocton county and author of the Workmen's Compensation Law, will address the crowd in front of the Honor Roll.

MANUFACTURERS MUST FILE REPORT ON SUGAR NEEDED

To Food Administration Committees:

Control of the distribution of sugar to manufacturers will continue during the period of the war.

The general tendency toward the gradual elimination of the less essential industries will undoubtedly be cumulative as the war progresses.

It is important that all manufacturers of less essential food products, using sugar, must file the required statement with the Food Administration, Sugar Division, at Columbus, by June 10, 1918. No sugar will be allotted to manufacturers failing to make this report. (Please notify trades accordingly and give wide publicity.)

Any manufacturer who has in stock a large amount of sugar and for this reason think that he has no occasion to file a report will lay himself liable to severe penalty and may be proceeded against as a hoarder in the meantime.

Alcoholic drinks and ice cream cones have now been added to list of product under statement "A," sugar distribution reports. Complete list of product in which sugar is used under statement "A" follows:

Beverage syrups, candies, cereals, chewing gum, cocoa and chocolate, compressed confections, flavoring extracts, [illegible], syrup, ice cream cones, soda water, soft drinks, sweet pickles, wines and alcoholic drinks.

Grandma Talks About Babies

Has a large Circle of Listeners Who Profit by Her Wisdom and Experience.

In almost any community there is a grandma who knows Mother's Friend. Not only is she reminiscent of her own experience but it was through her recommendation that so many expectant mothers derived the comfort and blessing of this famous remedy.

Mother's Friend is an external application prepared especially for expectant mothers, after the formula of a noted family physician. It certainly has a wonderful effect in relieving tension brought about by expanding muscles, and is a most grateful encouragement to the woman awaiting motherhood.

The action of Mother's Friend makes the muscles free, pliant and responsive. When baby arrives they expand easily, and pain and danger at the crisis is naturally less.

Strain upon the nerves and ligaments is lessened and in place of a period of discomfort and consequent dread, it is a season of calm repose and happy anticipation.

Mother's Friend enables the mother to preserve her health and natural grace and she remains a pretty mother by having avoided the pain and suffering which more often than otherwise accompanies such an occasion when nature is unaided.

Write the Bradfield Regulator Co., Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their "Motherhood Book," so valuable to expectant mothers, and in the meantime do not by any chance fail to purchase a bottle of Mother's Friend from the druggist and thus fortify yourself against pain and discomfort. ALKALI MAKES SOAP BAD FOR WASHING HAIR

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

MEN AND WOMEN IN FIGHTING TRIM

They Keep To The Top Notch of Health

The spirit of the times demands perfect health and nerves, and keeping them up to the highest degree of efficiency.

Wise men and women have learned that it does not pay to allow health or nerves to run down and are quick to take advantage of Nature's greatest red blood and nerve tonic, Phosphated Iron, the minute they feel they are slowing up.

Whatever you work may be there is no reason why it should continue to tire you; work should only use the right amount of your energy. It is trying to work on your nerves and forcing yourself that wastes your strength, runs you down, gives you those restless nights, loss of appetite and indigestion, when you get up in the morning as tired as when you went to bed. There is no sense in anyone being a victim of ill health, poor blood, over work, nerves or the blues when Phosphated Iron will afford such prompt and permanent relief.

All over the country men and women in every walk of life lay their good health, strength and nerves of iron to the use of Phosphated Iron, the red blood and nerve builder, and it will also put you on your feet, make you feel like a live one. It produces results that last, that's what counts, no "ifs" about it.

To insure physicians and their patients getting the genuine Phosphated Iron we have put in capsules only. Do not take pills or tablets. Insist on capsules. Winner-Arnold Drug Co., and leading druggists everywhere sell it.

GERMAN AIRMEN RAID PARIS; ONE DEAD, MANY HURT

(International News Service)

PARIS, JUNE 7.—After a respite of several nights, the German airmen again attacked Paris last night, killing one person and wounding several other. Some material damage was done.

The people were awakened shortly before midnight by the alarm sirens and heavy artillery firing. Twenty aeroplanes had crossed the line flying in the direction of Paris. Word was flashed to the defensive posts and the high angle gunners put up an intense aerial barrage.

The curtain of fire wa sintense. The interval between the alert signal and the all clear was shorter than usual, the latter being sounded at one o'clock this morning.

GIRLS! MAKE A BEAUTY LOTION WITH LEMONS

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quarter pint of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoother and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to whiten, soften, freshen and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is truly marvelous to smoothen rough, red hands.

JUDGE CITIES BY POLICEMEN

Character of Guardians of Peace Serves as Criterion for Municipalities, Says Writer.

It used to be said that each country could be known by the Jews who lived within its borders. In the same way every city can be judged by the character of its policemen, writes Hendrik Willem van Loon, in Century Magazine.

In Christiania the policeman is a mild and amiable citizen in a rather shiny coat, and none too neat, who stands in the middle of the roadway and tries to maintain some semblance of order in the democratic muddle of the city's traffic.

In Stockholm the policeman is a walking arsenal, with sword and pistol and a brass helmet, and the arrest of a disorderly person becomes an act of state. There the policeman represents the high authority of a proud country. He fulfills his duty with a stern severity. He is the symbol of law and established order. Let no one touch these fundaments of a well-regulated commonwealth.

In Copenhagen the policeman is neither the happy-go-lucky citizen who patrols the streets of Norway nor is he a creature of resplendent glory like his colleague in Sweden. He strikes a happy medium. In this he is an excellent representative of a land where the art of sensible and peaceful living seems to have been brought to its highest perfection. If only the chauffeurs of the Danish capital would learn how to drive their cars we should not have a single complaint to make against a country where everybody seems well fed, where beggars are as scarce as very rich people and where the women live up to the best traditions of the charming china which is made in the royal residence of Denmark.

RULERS WHO GAVE UP CROWN

Diocletian Relinquished Scepter to Raise Cabbages at Salona, While Charles V Turned Gardener.

It was Diocletian who quit dominion to raise cabbages at Salona, and who refused to die lord of the world, relates a historian. He was happier farming, he told the envoys of his friends. Charles V, Roman emperor and king of Spain, likewise laid down his scepter and turned gardener before he died. Philip V of Spain abdicated in favor of his son, but resumed the crown. Amurath, sultan of the Ottoman Turks, was luckier. He abdicated in favor of his son, but resumed the throne in a moment of national peril. Then he abdicated again. A second time a national crisis called him from retirement, but he had tasted the pleasures of private life, and he hastened to return to them.

He was a great king, the greatest ruler of his generation, and the most capable commander. His arms were invincible on two continents, his territories inviolate, but he preferred the quiet of his palace of Adrianople, the conversation of poets and philosophers, and the theological arguments of the wise men of Islam to the counsels of his statesmen. He died peacefully in his bed, praising the peace he had come to know, and his son, the second Mohammed of the Ottoman line, won a more lasting reputation by the destruction of the Byzantine empire.

Human Engine Requires Fuel.

The human body, especially as regards nutrition, has justly been compared to an engine. If a steam engine is to perform a certain amount of work it must be supplied with fuel, and the quantity of fuel must be in proportion to the work to be performed, observes a scientist. In like manner, also, man to be able to act, requires fuel, which we call food; and, like the engine, the person who has to perform a greater amount of work will also require a greater supply of food. Besides, the human engine does not stop for a second in its work, for even in the profoundest sleep heart and lungs are uninterruptedly active. From this follows that as long as we live we are compelled to supply the body with ever new fuel. He who neglects this duty will perish; his engine comes to a standstill.

Scientific Management.

Expressed concretely, scientific management is the conduct of business along the lines followed by skilled and successful managers who are broad in judgment and progressive in their mental attitude toward life, asserts W. E. Conover in Industrial Management. That a degree of advancement in progressive methods of manufacture, and in progressive principles of executive supervision has taken place within the past two decades, no one can dispute. It is the formulation of these more advanced practices into fixed rules of procedure which has come in recent years to be designated as a business science.

Foundress of Carthage.

It is believed to have been in the ninth century B. C. that the Phoenicians founded the colony of Carthage, on the northern coast of Africa, destined to become the most famous of all the numerous settlements made by them. Legend, however, credits Dido with being the foundress of Carthage. She was the daughter of a king of Tyre, whose successor was Pygmalion, the brother of Dido. He murdered her husband and sought to gain his wealth, but Dido, taking the treasure which had been hidden, and accompanied by a large number of Tyrians, escaped by sea.

ALLIES RENEW DETERMINATION TO SEE IT THRU

LONDON, June 7—"The Americans are not afraid: they have large naval forces," said the Chronicle today commenting upon the invasion of American waters by German submarines. It added:

"This will make their stiff war determination still stiffer." The Graphic says in the Germans action an omen of the seriousness of Germany's position. "This will bring home the war more vividly to us," the Graphic said.

Lord Asquith asked in the House of Commons if the government would make any statement regarding the military situation. Chancellor A. Bonar Law said this afternoon that debate on the vote of credit will offer a suitable opportunity. The statement of Premier Clemenceau of France that the allies will fight to the end is the only statement that is justified now, Mr. Law said.

BUCYRUS—Orders have been received here for the consolidation of the Aadms and the American express companies' offices beginning July 1.

SAMMIES ARE BORN FIGHTERS

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY AT THE MARNE, JUNE 6.—Are the Americans good fighters? That question is answered by an expert, Capt. George Wackerine, a French officer attached to an American unit. Captain Wackerine who fought with the Americans on the Marne afterwards said of them:

"They are natural born fighters. They joke when danger is greatest. The spirit displayed by them shows the stuff Americans are made of. I am proud to fight with them."

Captain Wackerine is a brave fighter and a seasoned veteran and during the Marne fighting constantly exposed himself to danger.

Diphtheria

A sore throat is a good breeding place for Diphtheria germs. Protect your children by never neglecting a Sore Throat. You can wisely depend upon TONSILINE. Give Tonsiline upon the first appearance of Sore Throat—don't give Diphtheria a chance in that throat in its weakened condition. When TONSILINE is swallowed it comes directly in contact with the diseased surface and induces a healthy condition of the membranes—then the system can better defend the throat if attacked by Diphtheria germs. Keep TONSILINE in the house where you can get it quick when needed. 35c., 60c. and $1.00.

GIRLS! YOU CAN LIFT THEM OFF

Doesn't hurt a bit to lift your sore, touchy corns right out

A noted Cincinnati authority discovered a new ether compound and called it freezone and a quarter ounce of it now can be had for a few cents at any drug store.

You simply apply a few drops of this magic freezone upon a tender corn or painful callus and instantly the soreness disappears, then shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it off with the fingers.

You feel no pain, not a particle of soreness, either when applying freezone or afterwards, and it doesn't even irritate the skin.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also toughened calluses, just shrivel up and lift off so easy. It is wonderful! It works like a charm. Try it!

Women should keep it on their dressers and never let a corn ache twice.

SETTLEMENT OF PRICE OF WHEAT AGAIN DEFERRED

WASHINGTON, June 7—Settlement of the $2.50 wheat question was again deferred in congress this afternoon. Conferees on the agricultural appropriation bill had planned to make a final disposition of the senate amendment which provides for $2.50 wheat but postponed their meeting.

Wheat Saving Is Imperative

To Food Administration Committees: Please give publicity to the following telegram just received from Herbert Hoover, U. S. Food Administrator:

"Reports have been circulated that Food Administration officials state further wheat conservation not necessary. No statement of the character has ever been issued. The actual position is that our supplies until harvest allow home consumption of approximately one-third normal position is that in farmers hands and storage we had at the beginning of May 75,000,000 bushels of wheat to carry us for approximately three months or with an early harvest perhaps two weeks shorter. Our normal consumption for three months would be one hundred and twenty-seven million bushels, not allowing allies anything.

(Signed) Hoover."

TAKE A SUNSHINE TABLET FOR THY STOMACH'S SAKE

There never was such a marvelous prescription for stomach distress and indigestion as Mi-o-na.

No doctor ever wrote a better one; it's doubtful if any doctor ever will. It's so good that Wimmer-Arnold Drug Co., says money back if it doesn't relieve.

A woman in Maine calls Mi-o-na the sunshine prescription because she has seen so many sour, miserable, aggravating dyspeptics turned into happy, cheerful, sweet human beings in a few days by taking Mi-o-na.

The stomach is responsible for three-fourths of the nervousness and half the misery of the world. A woman can have a first-class stomach and yet be miserable if she has a husband who is nervous dyspeptic.

If you have indigestion, belching of gas, heaviness after eating, drowsy sensation after eating, sour stomach or any miserable stomach disturbance the prescription called Mi-o-na will put you right, and bring sunshine into your life in a week.

A large box of Mi-o-na tablets cost only 50 cents at Wimmer-Arnold Drug Co., and by leading druggists everywhere. They are small and easy to swallow.

Letters From The Boys

The following letter was received by Mrs. Thomas Jones of Roscoe, from Benj. W. Savage, who is with the L. Q. M. Co., 14 of the Aviation department

Naval Operating Base,
Hampton Roads,
June 2, 1918

Mrs. Thomas Jones,
Roscoe, Ohio.

Dear Cousin:

I received your letter tight and was certainly glad to hear from you. How is everybody at Coshocton now? I didn't know that John was at Fort Monroe. I can see Fort Monroe from where I stay. I am going over to see him just as soon as I get time. I wish you would send me John's church address if you know what it is.

I have changed from the hospital corps to the aviation corps. I received a letter from father the other day he is glad that he is back in Arkansas. I certainly would be glad to get you and Mr. Jones' pictures. I was at Ocean View, Va., yesterday and had a good time.

I expected to see your brother John but he wasn't there.

Well Jeannette, there is not much news to write so I will have to close. Tell all the folks hello and give them my love. I am as ever your cousin, BENJ. W. SAVAGE.

One month ago, newspapers in this country carried a number of articles to the effect that the American soldiers in France would observe Mothers' Day, which was May 12, in writing letters to their mothers. That this was actually done, letters which the mothers in this country are now receiving testify.

Below are printed two letters, written by American soldiers in France, on Mothers' Day.

To Mrs. Margaret Bush, 744 Chestnut street, from Pvt. Zoch Bush, 101st Ammunition Train, A. E. F.:

May 12th, 1918.

Dear Mother:

I thot I would drop you a few lines to let you know I am well. As this is Mothers' Day, and all the boys are writing letters to their mothers, the pens are all busy and I have to use my pencil.

Well, mother, everything is getting along nicely here as far as I know. We are not doing much at present. We had a hard rain last night, and some thunder and lightning.

We had inspection yesterday, as we always have on Saturdays. We have to clean up ourselves and guns and motor trucks and the barracks and everything.

I haven't received any mail here yet. I think it is about time I get some.

Well, mother, I will close for this time, hoping this finds you well. Take good care of yourself, mother, for I am coming home some of these days and I'll want my mother.

Goodbye, from Your Boy.

Answer soon.

To carrola Frankenburger, of Walnut street, from her brother, Irvin Fankenburger, Medical Department, 167th Infantry, A. E. F.:

May 12, 1918.

My dearest sister:

This is Mothers' Day. All the boys in my regiment are writing long letters to their mothers, except those that unfortunate like you and me. We had the misfortune to loose our mother several years ago, and you know that the saddest part of our life was when the Lord called our dear mother. But some day there will be a meeting to part no more, and then, that will be the sweetest part of our lives.

I am well and getting along just fine. Things are more quiet than usual. Send this letter to brother, as I want him to read it. Also give him my love and best wishes. I hope he is well, and enjoying life as usual.

Here's hoping you are well and having a nice time. I am

Your loving brother,
Irvin.

PROCESS OF MAKING SOLDIERS WILL BE SEEN HERE 4 DAYS

Do you know what the boys are doing down in Camp Sherman? Of course, they are being made into soldiers, but do you know how this soldier making is being accomplished?

We cannot all visit the Camp at Chillicothe, and so Uncle Sam has devised means by which Ohio's military city may be brought to us. Uncle Sam wants the unselfish mothers who have given their boys to his great democratic army to know just what is happening in his soldier factory and so that great silent factor—the motion picture—again asserts itself as the greatest educator in modern history making.

On the screen, men making and soldier making at Camp Sherman will be visible here at the Pastime theatre June 12 to 15 inclusive. Major General Glenn is responsible for the camp picture which is entitled "The Remaking of a Nation." It visualizes comprehensively the organization and training of America's great new army.

Odd Fellows To Stage A Local Show

During the week of June 16, a home talent musical show will be given at the Sixth street theatre under the auspices of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. Miss Moorehead, of Zanesville, who directed the presentation of "Dolly Dimples" in this city a few years ago, will come to Coshocton Monday to select the cast and start work on the production.

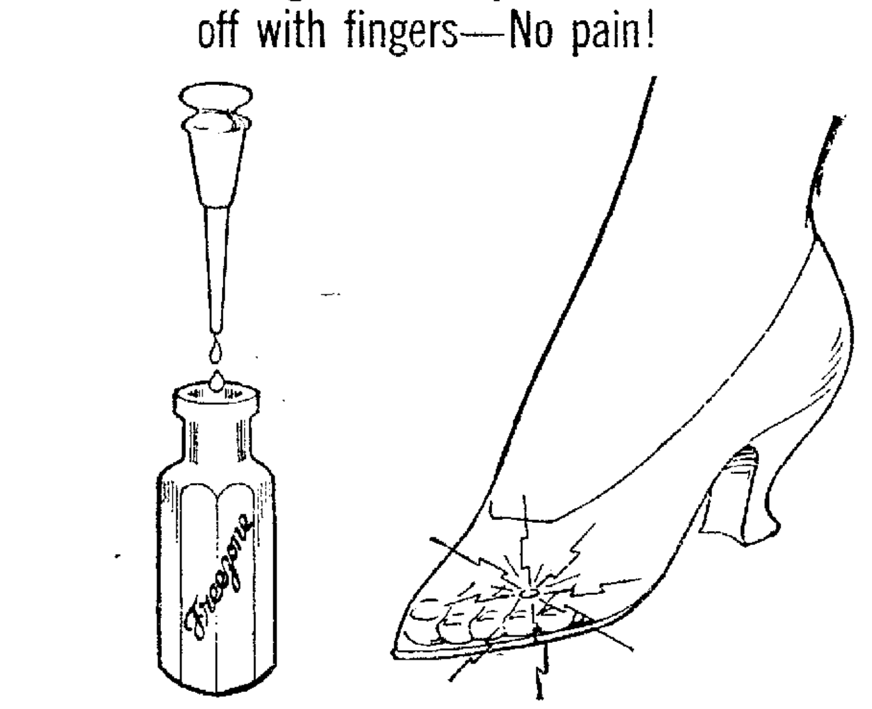

Miss Moorehead has requested the lodge to have "everyone from six to 60" at the Sixth street theatre Tuesday evening, when she will choose the personnel of the choruses and start the rehearsals. She is especially anxious that organizations of young people, such as the Boy Scouts and the Camp Fire Girls, be present Tuesday evening.

The company for whom Miss Moorehead travels furnishes all costumes and property required for the presentation of the show.

The Odd Fellows expect to invest the proceeds in War Savings Stamps.

Rheumatism Back on the Job With its Old-time Fury

No Let-Up In Its Torture.

Pretty soon you will be reaching for the liniment bottle again, for the millions of little pain demons that cause Rheumatism are on the war-path. Winter weather seems to awaken them to renewed fury.

But your Rheumatism cannot be rubbed away, because liniments and lotions cannot reach the disease. It is in the blood, and only a remedy that goes deep down into the circulation, and routs out the disease germs, can rid you of this disabling disease.

S. S. S. has given some wonderful results in treating Rheumatism. Being a purely vegetable blood remedy, it purifies the blood of every germ, and thus removes the cause of Rheumatism. Get a bottle to-day at your drugstore, and start on the right treatment that will get results. Doctor said, "Bio-feren had done wonders for her."—

Case 1724—School teacher; Residence—Kentucky, severe operation, left her weak, anaemic, nervous, low vitality. Physician recommended Bio-feren. Two weeks' treatment showed remarkable improvement. Doctor reported, "Bio-feren had done wonders for her."

Another case—Pennsylvanian, reports: "I have taken about one-half of the Bio-feren pellets and must confess that I feel like new."

A Kentuckian woman says: "I have taken Bio-feren regularly and feel much benefited. I can use my arms much better. However, can not get my hands to my head sufficiently to comb my hair, but I feel that I will soon be able to do that."

You want the vigorous health and ruddy beauty that is dependent on strength, nerves and red blood. Everybody does. Read those reports above, again. You, too, if you are dragged down in health and strength because of overwork, worry, nerves, and similar causes can rebuild your health and strength with Bio-feren. It is not a stimulant. And don't forget that Bio-feren is sold only on condition that you will return the empty package and allow us to refund your purchase price if, for any reason, you are not fully satisfied. Please bear that in mind for it is very important.

DENATURING THE MULE.

Bill Nye once burst into poetry in this wise:

"Oh lonely, gentle, unobtrustive mule!
Thou standest idly 'gainst the azure sky
And sweetly, sadly, singest like a hired man."

There is going to be no more of that singing, if the veterinary experts of Washington and Oregon have their way about it. They are plotting to hold a joint clinic in Portland next month and devise ways and means to make the mule brayless.

There are said to be three ways known by which this aim can be accomplished, all of them surgical. One of them, strange to relate, involves the severing of certain tail muscles. It appears that the mule, for some mysterious reason, cannot bray whole-heartedly without elevating his tail, just as a rooster cannot crow without raising his head.

It seems a sad fate to inflict on a helpless beast, whatever the method. Surely a mule has little enough joy in life without being deprived of the consolation of his own voice. To uncomprehending humans it may be an offense, but no doubt every mule is, to his own ears, a Caruso.

Military necessity, however, demands it. The mules are wanted for army service, and it doesn't do to have them braying around behind the lines; they tip off too meuh information to the enemy. So far the period of the war, at least, they must be mute.

THE WHY OF THE COAL SHORTAGE.

The coal operators and transportation companies may well pray to be saved from their friends. Recently, "The Black Diamond," their official organ, figured that the Fuel Administration's closing order made every ton of coal saved cost $223.21. This has caused considerable chuckling among tory organs, and comments of which the following from The Magazine of Wall Street is typical:

"Last August $2 a ton was the highest price the Government was willing to permit bituminous to be sold for. It looks very much as tho the Government had not saved much by trying to shave the coal operator's profits down to the last notch."

There can be but one meaning to this. It is a plain statement that, had the Government allowed bigger coal profits, the coal shortage would not have occurred. If that is true then some one has committed sabotage. Having refused to submit to a holdup, the Government has suffered from the revenge of disappointed profiteers. That is the only reasonable inference to be drawn. But there is more conveyed than was intended If "The Black Diamond," and "The Magazine of Wall Street" state the truth, it is not a penalty for restriction of private profits that we are paying, but a penalty for maintaining private monopoly of natural resources and public highways.

But for this there would have been no occasion for arbitrary interference with prices, no shortage, no order to shut down, and no need to make heavy sacrifices in order to conserve supplies. Monopolistic interests should urge more self-restraint in discussing the situation.

"LITTLE GERMANYS" MUST GO.

Nebraska is carrying on an energetic campaign against the "little Germanys" thruout the state that have been nests of pro-Germanism, or at the least, of un-Americanism.

Among the definite steps taken is the ban on the use of the German language on the streets, in schools, churches and other public places, at home and in telephone conversations.

It was found upon investigation that in some schools where only a few of the pupils were of German parentage, the German language was nevertheless used exclusively in class work. It is to be replaced by English now, and any teaching of German up to and including the high schools is to be abandoned upon the completion of the present year's courses.

It was found further, that many seditious utterances for which persons were to be prosecuted had simply been paraphrases of statements made in German-language newspapers. Such papers are now to be discontinued.

Another curious custom discovered by the defence counsel's investigations was that of deciding by a majority vote at public meetings in what language the proceedings should be conducted.

Nebraska has not been alone in its easy-going tolerance of such systematic use of the German language. Most of the country is now awake to the fact that the Kaiser's friends have generally taken advantage of American good nature, and, like Nebraska, other communities are now determined speedily and thoroly to eradicate all this dangerous Germanism.

New York Day-By-Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, N. Y., JUNE 7.—It was the hour of the listless lull in a gilded dansant on Broadway. The tea sippers had departed and it would be a couple hours before the evening dinner rush eddyied in. At a table sat a group of parlor cobras—white faced, slender young men who live by their wits.

The draft has not caught them yet. Their borrowed cigarets glowed and life all about them in the streets was on the gallop. Yet they sat unmindful of anything save their personal appearance at which they gazed from time to time in the wall mirrors.

They were waiting for prey. Their prey being frivolous and corpulent women who pay them so much an hour to drag them around the polished floor.

There was a commotion at the roped entrance. A headwaiter almost unjointed his spine. The visitor entered. Broadway used to know him well. He was not a part of Broadway but he liked to look on.

He is an adventurer in the clean sense of the word, a wanderer who wants to see everything from Connecticut to Tibet and who is always glad to do any work from waiting on table to bombing a city.

He is one of the strong young eagles of the air, an American Ace. He came back for a short spell and will soon return. He walked over to the group of idlers. He knew them. In earlier days he killed time with them around the dansant tables.

He shook hands with them and sat down. There was a pause. "Boys" he said "I mean to be kind. What I'm going to say may not hurt you for you are calloused I guess. But when I come in here and see you with your pomaded hair, pasty faces, cigaret [illegible] I think of a lot of vul[illegible]tures I once saw in No Man's Land."

Then he got up and walked away. That was all—save Broadway hears that the next day three of the young loafers enlisted in the navy and the other has gone to his cantonment near New York.

Winthrop Ames is home from France where he visited amusement huts in the American camps. At the Twilight Club he told his story.

"Say" said an American soldier to his bunkie "you speak French?"

"Sure!"

"Well, there's an old girl in the grocery store down there who gave me a franc short in my change when I bot some cigarets. I want you to go down and tell her just what I think of her, in French, and get my franc back."

"Sure. I'll do that thing." And to the shop they went.

"Polly vous francais?" demanded the soldier.

"Mais parfaitemant, monsieu."

"Well, say, why in hall don't you give my pal back that franc you short changed him out of?"

A New York newspaper is discussing what building is the most impressive from the stand point of the visitor. Some say Madison Square Tower. Some say the Woolworth Building and others the Consolidated Stock Exchange. The Herald Building with its [illegible] owls never fails to draw [illegible] to my mind the most interesting building in town is a three story structure set in the corner of a huge skyscraper at Broadway and Thirty Fourth street. It has resisted all efforts of the owners of the skyscrapers to sell. Upon their refusal the skyscrapper people just built the [illegible] structure around it.

American Heroism At The Marne Goes Down With Annals Of Brave

(By Bert Ford)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY AT THE MARNE, JUNE 5. (Delayed)—American machine gunners who held the Marne bridge at Chateau Thierry when the Germans threatened to pour across in their southward march on Paris, are certain of their place in the history of America's participation in this war. Altho this was their first appearance in the battle, the coolness and bravery won the admiration of the French infantry fighting by their side.

One American machine gun battalion killed approximately one thousand Germans, losing only one man and a few slightly wounded. They held the Chateau Thierry bridge at a heavy disadvantage.

The American marines, known as "the soldiers of the sea," who won added lustre to the traditions of their organization by breaking up two vicious enemy attacks on Tuesday night, annihilated a German patrol this morning and topped off 24 hours activity this afternoon by capturing a machine gun and taking prisoners as well as killing many Germans in a series of sharp encounters.

Complete details of the part the Americans played in stemming the attempted German rush across the Marne were received today. The Yanks were rushed to the battle front during the night and found themselves in cantonments just north of Chateau Thierry at 3.30 in the morning. In the afternoon heavy enemy forces advanced attempting to complete their occupation of Chateau Thierry. The enemy succeeded in forcing a breach but the French quickly threw in their infantry, at the same time calling upon the American machine gunners for assistance. The following statement was later made to the headquarters of one of our oganizations by a French officer:

"Americans immediately reinforced our entire defense especially at the ends of the (Marne) bridge. Their courage and ability as marksmen evoked the admiration of all. Crushed by our fire, the enemy hesitated and, as the result, we counter attacked, supported by American machine gunners. The enemy was thrown back beyond the edges of the town. Chateau Thierry remains entirely in our hands."

On the following night the Boches, taking advantage of the darkness, stole towards the large bridge spanning the Marne, having penetrated thru the western suburbs along the bank of the Marne. They used smoke bombs to mask their movements and the murk made it difficult for the machine gunners to man their places. At the same time German artillery laid down a terrific bombardment on the towns, the buildings crumbling into ruins. Shrapnel was bursting everywhere. Despite the cannonade, American machine gunners on the southern bank, poured a steady stream of lead across the river, which is barely fifty yards wide at this point. As the Germans emerged from their trucks for the attack they were slaughtered in heaps. At the same time this fire covered the movement of the French to the southern bank of the Marne.

In the midst of this action an American officer with two machine guns crossed to the northern bank and took up a position near the famous statue of Fontain, writer of the Fables. There they held their posts, protecting the French retreat.

The Germans hold on hill 204 gave them the advantage of overlooking the town. The Americans and French planted machine guns in the doorways and windows of the battered houses and rained steel into the enemy's lines. In this manner 300 Germans who had crossed to the southern bank of the Marne were quickly routed. The American commanders found it difficult to prevent our troops from crossing the river in the face of heavy fire, so enthused did they become. Chateau Thierry is now a mass of ruins. Formerly it was one of the most beautiful spots on the Marne.

The French having retired the Germans then rushed out upon the bridge. Suddenly there was a tremendous explosion which destroyed the entire center of the bridge, sending the bodies of German soldiers flying high into the air. The few eGrmans who had already gotten to the southern side of the bridge, ran for the bank with lifted hands, crying for mercy.

The fate of their comrades halted the rest of the Germans. Meanwhile our machine gunners continued to spurt bullets across the Marne until the Germans abandoned their efforts to force a passage.

Naturally the Americans suffered some losses under the violent bombardment but they were not out of proportion to the great service rendered nor the boody losses they inflicted upon the eGrmans.

A French officer in a report to American headquarters said:

"The courage of the Americans is beyond all praise. Our infantry accustomed to acts of bravery were struck by the wonderful morale and extraordinary coolness of our allies in the face of fire. Their watchfulness never failed them. They will be relieved at the sam time as the French troops at the side of whom they fought. The French knowing their just pride, feared that any other course would humiliate these valiant troops. The episode of Chateau Thierry will remain one of the beautiful deeds of this war. It is the pleasure for all of us to know what our valiant allies have shared with us there. Our bonds of affections and confidence will be strengthened by the same pride we share in common."

Our machine gunners continue to occupy the positions from which they repulsed the enemy, firing continually into the northern part of Chateau Thierry across the Marne and assisting the artillery in making the eGrman positions absolutely untenable.

As the details of the Marne fighting filter thru numerous cases of individual heroism continue to crop up.

Thruout the whole burst of fighting in big actions and small the endurance and enthusiasm of our men has been a revelation to the French.

The admiration between the Americans and French is mutual. Each side regards the other as a band of daring and gallant warriors.

After the fight on the Marne last Tuesday an American machine gunner was asked what he thot of it.

"Well," he replied, reflectively, "thot it was bully."

"I sure did crank the hot lead into those guys for killing women and childfen and knocking down churches and bombing hospitals. It was just like the old days when I turned the ice cream freezer for mother."

Workings of Heart and Mind.

The mind is learned and the heart is natural. The mind travels impatiently, pores over the books, puts down figures and rattles test-tubes and connects wires and drives nails or bakes a loaf of bread or digs a garden or guides a plow—and then goes home at night to be comforted. The heart may not be sure of its spelling. The heart may be a thing that often stands bewitched and forlorn in the presence of the visible universe and the unrealized divine immensities. But the heart sees things that the mind has never seen. The heart enfolds in its compassion all the grievous wayward goings of the bruised and broken, the tortured and wasted, the outcasts and the afflicted.—Exchange.

HUSBAND GONE—SONS GONE—HOME AND RELATIVES GONE

A Fact Story Telling Just What the Red Cross Did for Mme. Pellier.

By an Eye Witness
MAUDE RADFORD WARREN

This is the picture I saw last January in France,—and you have mercifully changed it! Color enough there was—above, the eternal blue; in the background, fields of living green, which the German shells could not prevent from creeping back; in the middle foreground, a long village street so battered and burned that it was merely a canyon of cream-colored ruins. In front of one little broken house were four figures in black—an old woman, poking among the fallen stones in a vain search for something that could be used; a younger woman, seated on what had once been a doorstep, with her face hidden in her arms; and a little boy and girl, who stared, half frightened, half curious, at the desolation about them. The little boy held in his thin hand a Red Cross flag. All four were pale and gaunt; the faces and bodies of the children showed none of the round curves that make the beauty of a child.

This is their history: When the war broke out, Mme. Pellier, her mother and her four younger children were visiting her husband's mother in the north of France. Her husband and two elder sons were at home in Lorraine taking care of the summer crops. Then the war! The mother in-law of Mme. Pellier was ill and could not be left. Her old mother was afraid to travel to Lorraine with the full care of the four children. Before they could all start together the Germans invaded. Bad news is allowed to come into northern France, and so as the months passed Mme. Pellier learned that her village home had been bombarded and that her husband and two sons had been killed. Except for the Belgian Relief Commission, which operates in northern France also, she and her little ones would have starved outright. At the best they were undernourished. Then the great push began, and hopes for France grew high. But as the French soldiers advanced they had to bombard the northern towns. Mme. Pellier begged the Germans to let her go away with her children—even into Germany. This was refused. She tried to seek safety in some cellar whenever there was a bombardment. Nevertheless a shell killed two of her children.

Found Her Home Gone.

Home gone; husband gone; brave soldier sons gone; little, tender boys torn into shreds! That woman's face would have shown you what she had suffered—her face against the battered ruins the Germans had made. At last she and her mother and her two remaining children were repatriated. They knew the infinite relief of crossing into Switzerland and then into Haute-Savoie. From there they went to Lorraine. Mme. Pellier hoped that, even though her village had been bombarded, her home might have escaped. She found nothing except her bare fields.

You changed that picture, you Americans, who can never be bombarded, who can never lose through war five out of the seven dearest to you. It was not your husband and children who died; not your wife who was widowed; not your little ones who came back, bony and tubercular, to a home that had vanished. Not yours, but only the grace of accident saved you; not yours, but it might have been and so you changed the picture. You could not build up with your own hands that heap of stones into a home, nor till the fields, nor bring Mme. Pellier back to hope and the children back to health. But through the Red Cross you saved the remnants of that family that had suffered as you might have suffered.

Things the Red Cross Did.

You took the mother of Mme. Pellier to a Red Cross hospital to be treated for anaemia. You took the little girl, who was in the first stages of tuberculosis, to a Red Cross sanitarium. You found a place which could be made habitable for Mme. Pellier near her fields which she was anxious to till. You gave her clothes and furniture; you got her seeds; you lent her implements. You sent a visiting doctor to watch over her health and that of her little boy. You sent nurses, who achieved the mighty victory of making her and the child take baths. Later you persuaded her to let him go to a refuge not far away where he might attend school and where she could often visit him. Through the help of your Red Cross hope and courage and ambition have come back to that woman, and she is rebuilding her family life. The biggest thing one human being can do for another you, if you are a helper of the Red Cross, have done for that mother.

Red Cross! I saw its work everywhere in France—in fields and in blasted villages; in hospitals and schools and clinics; in refuges and vestiaries for widows and orphans and for the sick children of soldiers fighting to keep you safe from the enemy.

This symbol of help has a double meaning now for Americans, who have always taken for granted the blessing of safety. It stands for your willingness to pay the price of exemption, of pity, of sympathy. A bitter, black road this road of war, but across it, like a beacon of hope, you have flung the Red Cross.

HE GAVE HIS SHIRT OFF HIS BACK

How an Italian Officer Traveling on Train Helped a New Born Baby.

One of the ways to say that a man is good hearted is to descend to expressive Americanese slang and say "he'd give you his shirt."

A young Italian officer did exactly that—gave the shirt off his back to a baby just born. It was during a flight of the Italian refugees just after the Italian army had been tricked by the Austrians.

Here's the story:

An Italian officer, who had been a volunteer worker at the station when the crush came through, walked into the American Red Cross office at Bologna, Italy, and told of a poor young woman who had given birth to a baby on the train in which he was riding a few night's previously. They had been riding for over 16 hours, and the wretchedly poor and disheartened mother had been jammed in with the hundreds of other frightened Italians on the same train. Hungry, tired and miserable and in a frightfully weakened condition, she had scarcely sufficient clothes for herself, not to speak of properly caring for a newborn babe. The young officer stripped himself of his shirt, and there among this frightened, half starved, forlorn crowd the poor Italian infant was wrapped in its first body covering.

Mother and babe were afterwards nursed back to health, clothed and looked after by the American Red Cross. And this is only one small, isolated incident among thousands that come under the working of the Red Cross.

FULL MAN-SIZED HAM SANDWICH

What Ten Minutes for Refreshments Means in Modern War.

Think of what refreshments mean "over there." Think of the Sammie or the Poilu coming out of the trenches with a thirty-six hour leave of absence, getting aboard the train or motor on the L. O. C.—the Line of Communication between the front and the rear. Think of these tired fellows stopping ten minutes for refreshments at a Red Cross Canteen.

Think of a big cup of hot coffee and a wealth of man-sized ham sandwiches served by the Red Cross—women with the joy of service in their eyes. Think of ten minutes for refreshments within sound of the guns—such refreshments served by such women. Did ever a weary lad have such refreshments? Did ever a cup of coffee and a sandwich taste so good?

It is service like this, the supplying of "food that's got a homey taste" at a time when a man's spirits are likely to be at lowest ebb, that moved a Commanding General of the American Forces to write on December 30: "The extent of the work of the Red Cross is only limited by the number of members it has and the amount of funds available for its use."

SPRINGFIELD, O., JUNE 7 Hotel keepers and restaurant men today were accused of holding up traveling men by charging high prices The accusation was made by R. F. Somerville of Dayton, while submitting his annual report as grand secretary at the opening session of the grand council United Commercial Travelers of Ohio.

SUMMER PRUNING NOT DESIRABLE.

The question is asked many times each season "Is the summer pruning of fruit trees practicable and advisable?"

The answer is no except in a limited way Small branches and water sprouts may be removed without harm to the trees but the cutting off of large branches is debilitating It may be said in favor of summer pruning that wounds made in the growing season heal quickly, and it has been asserted that summer pruning hastens fruit bearing, but this is not fully settled as a matter of fact

In practice pruning when the leaves are on is very difficult It cannot be done with a fair degree of speed except in the case of removal of dead branches When the leaves are in the way one cannot see which branches should be removed without consuming much time; besides, after a branch with leaves on is cut off its removal from the tree is difficult. When the trees are bare and the weather mild is the only practicable time o prune fruit trees.

Yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands of Girls Benefited

St. Louis, Mo.—"When I was only fifteen years old mother had to put me to bed every month for two days because I suffered such pain. I also suffered from a weakness and mother took me to a doctor but he did not help me. Finally mother made me take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has made me strong and healthy. So when mother or I hear any woman complaining we tell them about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it did for me."—Mrs. JOHN FRAME, 1121 N. 18th St., St. Louis, Mo.

Girls who suffer as Mrs. Frame did should not hesitate to give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial, as the evidence that is constantly being published proves beyond question that this grand old remedy has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine.

Newark Man Expresses Regret That He Did Not Know of Tanlac Long Ago

The record Tanlac is making thruout the country is most sensational. Both men and women clamor for an opportunity to extend the usefulness of the Master Medicine. Homer Trummell, living at 109 Jackson street, Newark, is one of them. He continues as follows:

I was in a run-down condition for a long time. I didn't sleep good and hadn't any appetite. The least little exertion tired me out. I had dull headaches, my back hurt me and I was awfully nervous, too. I lost interest in everything and could not see the bright side of life.

"Tanlac helped me wonderfully. I'm like being made over. I had my appetite back in a few days and am making up for lost time. I can say that Tanlac helped my back right away. I never lost an hour's sleep any night and wake so full of vim my work's like play now.

"I am sorry I did not know of Tanlac long ago."

Tanlac may be obtained at Page & Lorenz Drug store.

Million Men Added To U.S. Roll Of Honor

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, JUNE 7—A million more young Americans have inscribed their names on the nation's honor roll of men who offer their lives that civilization may endure.

Reports received at the office of Provost Marshal General Crowder showed that the registration of men who have reached the age of 21 since June 5, 1917 proceeded even more smoothly than on June 5 last.

This was due for the most part to the experience gained by the local boards last year, and it was expected that complete returns would be in Washington by Friday noon at the latest.

Based on figures for the first registration day, it was estimated that Wednesday's enrollment would aggregate about ten percent or 1,000,000 and that these, 75 percent 750,000 would be available for military duty ultimately to back up Pershing's boys already in France.

Hun Machine Guns Turned Upon Nurses

(International News Service)

LONDON, JUNE 7.—Not stopping at trying to destroy Red Cross hospitals with bombs, German airmen in France turned their machine guns against fleeing women nurses.

A wounded red haired waac "a member of the women's auxiliary army corps" who was injured when a German Gotha bombed a rest camp behind the British lines told her experience in the Evening News as follows:

"When the raids began we first took refuge in a wood near the town. The huns saw us against the chalky ground as we ran towards the wood and turned their machine guns upon us. After the bombardment began we did not have a chance to take our clothes off for nine days. Nightly warnings became the accustomed thing. There was only one girl that I saw become unnerved during these raids.

"In one raid a German machine fell and the blazing petrol revealed a group of women to the Germans. They dropped a bomb among them killing ten. I felt a piece of sharpnel strike my side but I did not say anything altho I could feel the warm blood streaming from the wound. Then they dropped gas bombs.

"A group of soldiers rushed up swearing that they would make the huns pay for this."

REICHSTAG HEAD SAYS PEACE IS SOON TO COME

LONDON, JUNE7—The command of the sea is not now the turning point said Vice President Paasche, of the German Reichstag, in opening that body at Berlin, said a Central News Dispatch from Amsterdam today. Paasche was quoted further as saying "Germany now having a free hand in the east, it is hoped that a decisive blow will soon fall and we will obtain an honorable peace.

Success of a New Remedy
For Backache, Kidneys, Rheumatism

WILLIAMSBURG, OHIO.—"This is an expression of my gratitude. I was seriously affected for years with a complication of diseases, especially of the kidneys and bladder, and tried quite a number of medicines and doctors' prescriptions with no benefit. I was requested by a friend to give a trial to Dr. Pierce's Anuric, which I did by ordering a trial treatment; that was very effective. I then procured a full treatment, and after taking same was restored to health, for which I am extremely thankful."—MARK CURLIS, Box 341.

BERLIN HEIGHTS, OHIO.—"I am writing to state what a wonderful medicine Dr. Pierce's Anuric is for rheumatism. I feel it my duty to recommend these tablets to anyone who needs them. They helped me, and they will help others."—Mrs. J. M. BREWSTER, Box 91, Route 1.

NOTE: Folks in town and adjoining counties are delighted with the results they have obtained by using ANURIC, the newest discovery of Dr. Pierce, who is head of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, in Buffalo, N. Y. Those who started the day with a backache, stiff legs, arms and muscles, and an aching head (worn out before the day began because they were in and out of bed half a dozen times at night) are appreciating the perfect rest, comfort, and new strength they obtained from Doctor Pierce's Anuric Tablets, double strength. To prove that this is a certain uric acid solvent and conquers headache, kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism, if you've never used the Anuric, cut this out and send ten cents to Dr. Pierce for a large sample package. This will prove to you that Anuric is many times more active than lithia in eliminating uric acid. If you are a sufferer, go to your best druggist and ask for a small bottle of Anuric.

SEC'Y DANIELS SAYS AMERICA FIGHTING CAN'T BE WHIPPED

(International News Service)

ANNAPOLIS, MD., JUNE 7.—Germany can never win the war. She could never win it even if her armies marched simultaneously down the street of Paris and of London, for America has called into life those forces that not all of the cannon in the world can kill—those elements of justice, of right and of liberty that no conqueror can long hold prisoner.

This was the message delivered today by Secretary of the Navy Daniels to the 199 members of the Annapolis naval academy class of 1919, graduated a year ahead of schedule because of the war. The Secretary recalled the traditions of the American navy which he called upon graduates to perpetuate; the deeds of its heroes which he urged to emulate; reviewed the aims of American in the war, and read a message, addressed to the embryo ensigns from Vice Admiral Sims.

"We have come into this war with no thot of material gain," said Secretary Daniels. "With no hope of measurable reward, with no desire for power and with no lust of battle. We have come in with pity and with hate in our hearts-pity for those whom a soulless international outlaw had ravished and destroyed and hate for the despicable things he has done under the specious plea of military right. War upon the aged and infirm; war upon the women and children; war upon neutrals, war upon the Red Cross—and then call it the act of military necessity."

CROWDER PRAISES DRAFT BOARDS FOR SPLENDID SERVICE

COLUMBUS, JUNE 7—Gov. Cox today received and transmitted to local and district boards a letter from Provost Marshall General Crowder expressing the latter's appreciation of the work of the various boards and officials in the execution of the selective service law. Gen. Crowder in his letter draws attention to the fact that the draft is one year old and highly eulogizes the accomplishments that have been recorded which he says "are those who have been conscripted into their countrys service in the twelve months to the number of 1,595,708. The number sent forward up to the end of December last year was slightly over the half million and to this was added considerably over a million who have been sent forward up to the first of June.

U.S. Will Rush Equipment to Replace Lost

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, JUNE 7.—Superiority of equipment for the allies, regardless of the extent of their losses, is the task that President Wilson's cabinet has taken upon itself.

Meeting this afternoon, the members perfected plans to keep equipment to replace that which has been lost during the great offensive on the western front. This will apply especially to machine guns, of which a large number have been captured by the Germans, it is understood. Optimism was the keynote of the meeting, despite the admitted gravity of the situation on the western front. The vital part Americans replying in the offensive was discussed and it is understood that plans were shaped for sending the men over in even larger numbers than have been transported recently.

Americans In Marne Battle Go Thru Huns

(By Newton C. Parke),
(International News Service)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, JUNE 7.—The most savage fighting that the Americans have yet taken part in since their arrival in France took place at Neuilly wood (north of Chateau Thierry) on the Aisne-Marne battle front. In this gently undulating wood the Americans delivered a brilliant counter attack against the Germans, engaging the enemy in hand to hand fighting amidst the tangled bodies of stumps that had been uprooted b ythe artillery fire.

The Americans swept the Germans back from the northern fringe of the wood and here proved themselves adepts with the bayonet.

Charging into the grey ranks of the Boches, the Americans broke up first one group and then another, heedless of the machine gun directed against them.

Our troops were rushed into the "battle for Paris" at a high rate of speed as the Germans were pressing forward on the Marne. Machine gunners were jammed into huge motor trucks that whirled along the dusty roads thruout Friday night, passing long rows of refugees. They pushed on past trains of artillery and arrived in the battle zone early in a certain morning. They took up their positions in shell wrecked buildings, in fields and every where that offered an opportunity, pouring out streams of lead fro mtheir machine guns into the ranks of the enemy. The Americans had the advantage of occupying higher ground than the attacking Boches.

When the Germans reached the outskirts of Chateau Thierry the allied artillery severely pounded their machine gunners, compelling them to take up new positions.

The Americans first entered the fighting near Chateau Thierry and blocked the attempts of the Germans to effect a lodgment on the southern bank of the Marne. Hundreds of Boches were slaughtered by machine gun fire as they tried to force a crossing and hold it.

Comparatively few of the Germans in the battalion that crossed the Marne near Jaulgonne escaped death or capture. When the French and American counter attacked a large number of the Germans were surrounded. Others fell beneath the withering blasts of machine gun fire or in the hand to hand fighting which developed.

American Red Cross units have been continually in action on the Marne front establishing canteens and aiding the refugees and wounded.

The fact that our soldiers were actually engaged in the fighting on the Marne was released by the censor after the information was given out in Tuesday's French war office communique.

13 Ships Toll Of U-Boats Off East Coast

NEW YORK, JUNE 7—With two more ships added to the list today, the toll in American vessels exacted by German submarsibles off the Atlantic coast now stands at 13. The newest victims of the undersea craft are the auxiliary schooner Samuel G. Mengel sunk by bombs 175 miles southeast of this port Sunday and the schooner Desauss, the victim of a torpedo, floating today off the Delaware coast.

News of the sinking of the Mengel was brought to an Atlantic port today with the arrival of a Danish steamer which had picked up the 11 members of the schooners crew in an open boat. Up to a late hour this afternoon no definate word had been received here of the fate of the Desauss crew.

YOU CAN NOW EAT YOUR FAVORITE FOOD AND WITHOUT FEAR

H. L. Kramer's "Eatonic" Rids Weak Stomachs of Acids, Gas, Heartburn, Pain and All Distress

What miserable feelings are caused by an upset stomach! That dull, heavy, "bloated" sensation after eating a full meal, robbing life of all its pleasures. Is there any way out for you martyrs to stomach weakness?

Yes: H. L. Kramer, the man who originated Cascarets, has found a sure, quick, relief for indigestion, dyspepsia, "sour stomach," heartburn, formation of painful gases, "bloating," etc., etc.

He calls his stomach relief EATONIC, and it certainly is making a wonderful record. Countless thousands of people who formerly approached their meals with dread, now eat their fill of their favorite foods without fear of the after-effects.

Mr. Kramer says: "My EATONIC tablets are the scientific solution of the age-old problem of indigestion and all forms of stomach misery.

"EATONIC neutralizes the acids, that form the painful gases, "sweetens" the stomach, and gives the gastric juice a chance to do its work as it should.

"To promote appetite and aid digestion, take EATONIC tablets—one or two after each meal. They are perfectly harmless. Take five or six tablets at each tablet. Chew well and swallow.

"For distress after eating; sour, "gassy," acid stomach, vertigo, nausea and belching, and that wretched, puffed-up, "empty" feeling, after over-eating, there is nothing to compare with EATONIC Tablets."

All druggists handle and recommend EATONIC; 50c for a large box. Watch out for imitations. The genuine bears the name EATONIC on each tablet.

Right Principle Pays.

People like to do business with men of principle. They can depend on promises, and plan their own future. The deals they make will be square and the goods bartered will bear honest inspection. The man of principle dare not let anything inferior pass him. Sometimes he deals to his own disadvantage, but that is only temporary. When the world gets to know his standards, it won't try to foist inferior goods upon him. And it knows it can depend on what he offers. That saves time and worry for everybody. It's no wonder folks like to trade with men of principle. If things are not right they make them right and it pays a hundredfold.—Exchange.

OLD ST. AUGUSTINE

By A. M'GAFFEY.

St. Augustine en fete presents the prettiest picture imaginable, and one need not be surprised to meet a romance at any turn of its quaint old streets. And the cathedral on the plaza, with its ancient Spanish belfry, would seem to be one of the most likely places in the city for a story, or, at least, for the beginning of one. So must have thought the fate that watches over our mundane affairs when on Easter Sunday the bells began to ring out their joyous invitation to the world.

As the orderly crowds thronged into church two young men crossed the Plaza and entered. One was in naval uniform; the other dressed as a tourists' guide, and both were bronzed as if from long sea service.

The services were half over when a lady and a gentleman came in at the great door and passed down the aisle toward the altar. The gentleman was stout and middle aged, the lady in the bloom of twenty years.

As they passed, looking neither to the right nor to the left, one of the young men touched the other on the arm with a glance at the pair. He was answered by a nod, and presently both left the church, slipping out by a side door. In a narrow street running at right angles to the plaza, they hailed a cab, into which he of the uniform stepped, drew the door to and sat down to wait.

The other, sauntering over to the plaza, took his station near the group of palms, in the shade of which two or three carriages were grouped. And soon the old bells boomed and the people streamed out. Among them were the two for whom our amateur detective was lying in wait, and as they entered one of the carriages he managed to get near enough to hear the order to "Fort San Marco."

By three o'clock in the afternoon the fort was crowded with people. Walking through this animated scene, a part of it, and yet foreign to it, were the young lady and the stout gentleman. There was a third person in the party now, a stranger with a distinguished air.

"There's a fine view for you, senor," remarked Mr. Maynall, the stout gentleman.

Don Miguel nodded a smiling assent; he was far too happy for words.

But a cry of rage from Mr. Maynall broke in on his trance. Right under the sea wall, at the foot of the eastern glacis, a four-oared boat, rocked on the incoming tide, and as Marian Maynall caught sight of it, she turned to her father and said, with a sparkle in her eyes: "They are waiting for someone down there; I wonder who it can be."

"Yes, they belong to that gunboat yonder. I suppose some young naval sprig out for a lark, curse him."

"Father!" exclaimed the girl angrily.

"I mean what I say," rejoined the other. "I hate the whole service because of that impudent jackanapes with whom you have been fancying yourself in love. What have you to say, Miguel?"

"Oh! oh! What is it, senor?" replied Miguel.

"I say we will laugh at a certain person after vespers," answered Mr. Maynall testily.

The Don's response was a scowl.

As the three moved away a tourists' guide stepped out from an embrasure and walked leisurely down the stairway. He wrote something in a memorandum book in his hand, then went into the corridor below and waited. The three came down presently. The guide nimbly opened a door on the right, and before the two gentlemen knew what had happened, they found themselves in a small room with a table in the center. An obsequious salesman took them in hand, while the guide, saying: "I will find a seat for the young lady outside," slipped back into the corridor.

Marian Maynall, divining that something unusual was on the tapis, was standing flushed and trembling when the audacious guide put the paper in her hand on which he had written:

"Lieutenant Westville waits for you at the foot of the eastern glacis. Lose no time."

And Marion Maynall lost no time. She flew out of the dark portal with swift step. A young man in naval uniform met her half way, and clasping hands they ran together down the slope to the boat. They were in it in a trice, but had not gone many lengths from the wall when a couple of gentlemen bounced out upon the esplanade waving their hands and shouting like mad.

Something must be done, however. Don Miguel set off below the fort, where he could hire a boat, and Mr. Maynall, pressing a cab into his service, hurried after, the crowd streaming down the road to see the fun.

It was a fine sight which now greeted the throngs on the pier. Each boat's crew did its best. The situation was intensified when, a moment later, a group appeared on the forward deck, and it became apparent that a marriage ceremony was taking place there. There was a general clapping of hands and loud cries of "bravo!" along the pier as the ceremony ended.

A warning shout of "stand off down there!" from the deck arrested the Don and Mr. Maynall in the frantic endeavors to board the vessel which had already begun to move. And soon a wide lane of blue water lay between the Don and the retreating vessel.

Perpetual Paste.

Dissolve one teaspoonful of alum in one quart of water. When cold stir in as much flour as will give consistency of thick cream, being sure to beat up all the lumps. Stir in as much powdered rosin as will cover a five cent piece and throw in six cloves to give a pleasant odor. Have on the fire one teacupful of boiling water; pour the flour mixture into it, stirring it well all the time; in a few minutes it will be the consistency of mush; pour into an earthen vessel, let it cool; put cover on and place in cool place. When needed for use take out a portion and soften with warm water. This will keep one year. It is better than gum as it does not gloss the paper, which can be written on.

Poison in Absinthe.

Absinthe, according to the Medical Record, owes its toxic properties to two types of ingredients: The first convulsive, represented by absinthe proper hyssop, fennel, etc., the second stupefying represented by anise, mint, coriander, angelica, origanum, balm mint, etc. It used to be believed that the ill effects of absinthe were produced by thuyone, but it has lately been shown that few, if any, of the plants used in manufacturing absinthe contain that drug.

Nature's Endless Chain.

Seasons are but links in the endless chain of nature. Those who study the geological data and inform themselves of the kinds of flora and fauna that were characteristic of the various ages of the earth in its development, talk of the evolution of life forms and much of the same nature. As a matter of fact, nature is simply employed in drawing through the ages an endless chain. Forms of living beings come in to view upon the surface of the earth or in the seas and these are relegated to oblivion in order that new forms may appear.

THY NEIGHBOR

By LOIS WOOD.

Linnelle moved into his bachelor apartments on the 8th of the month. He had had a suite down at the exclusive Waltermere, on Washington square, when Alston & Co. gave him the order for a book. It was to deal with New York life on the group system, showing how the city was divided into little neighborhood villages, especially among the poor.

Young Alston had suggested that he move over to the East side and study conditions among the submerged tenth at first hand. It had not appealed to Linnelle. He was not of the tramp-poet variety. Even while he liked to be a denizen of the old Greenwich village, still his quarters were on the north side of the square. But it came to pass that he became an inmate—he would not call it resident—of the Diggs apartments.

At some time Mr. Diggs had felt the weight of millions preying upon his mind and had placed model apartments for the deserving poor in their midst on the East side.

After the third day in his new lodgings the monotony palled on him. He had prowled around the neighborhood and made the alarming discovery that instead of being in the midst of thugs and night hawks he was in the midst of highly respectable old settlers. Instead of their being peculiar to their kind, they regarded him as a rara avis.

He was buying green peppers and fresh tomatoes from the little Greek Mario at the corner and answering his questions idly, when he became aware of another customer who seemed highly amused at his inquisition.

"You stay very long?" asked Mario.

"For awhile."

"What do you do for a living? Write? Play the music? Paint? Sculp? No? Just professor, huh?"

Linnelle felt his face redden as the girl smiled.

"Must one give an excuse for living here?" he asked.

And Mario let it pass. Hearing the girl give her address for the delivery of goods, Linnelle realized that he had a neighbor. He caught one swift glance from big gray eyes that smiled at him as he passed on. When his own goods were delivered via the dumb-waiter there was another basket thereon. Just as he was starting to write down a new idea, his telephone bell started to ring. It was his neighbor. Mario had told her he had left her goods with Mr. Linnelle, apartment 12. Would he be kind enough to let her have them?

Linnelle smoked savagely on his return. She had been smiling at him again in that cool, appraising, amused way. He plunged at his work with avidity, trying to banish the memory of a slim young person in a rose linen smock with curly, dark hair.

He made the discovery the next morning that from his windows on the inner court he could look over at her windows. Quite against his instinct of good taste he found himself doing so constantly. She had window boxes where spring bulbs bloomed profusely.

She came twice a day to water her plants. Then she would stand for a long while looking steadfastly up at the square patch of sky five stories above. He used to wonder if she could be a sunworshiper. The shaft of sunlight just struck her windows as it shone aslant down the court, and she drank it in even as her flowers did. So passed the weeks and their acquaintance ripened.

His book was nearing completion toward the middle of the summer. He had dinner at a little Turkish restaurant on Twenty-sixth street. It was nearly nine when he put his passkey in the lock of his own door.

"Oh! Mr. Linnelle." It was Marjorie Fraser, her face pale and anxious. "I wonder if I could ask you to come and look at my window. I just got home myself, and it looks as if someone had entered the apartment." Linnelle followed her down the hall.

In her little living room the scrim curtains and daffodil valance lay in a crumpled heap on the floor, the upper window pane had a round hole through its center.

"Do you think anyone is here?" she asked, standing in the doorway. For answer Linnelle glanced around quickly and picked up a baseball that had rolled under the steam heater.

"There's your burglar," he laughed and laid it on the table.

"I'll be so glad when this is over," she said. "I've soaked in local atmosphere until I'm sick and tired of it, and I want to go home. You see, Mr. Linnelle, I'm an actress and I have a perfectly dandy part in Carruthers' new production, 'Children of Clay.' I only came down here to live and catch the spirit of the East side. If it hadn't been for you living so near to me I'd have been scared to death."

"If it hadn't been for you living so near to me I'd have been bored to death," returned Linnelle. "Come up to the roof. I want to tell you there." And they went on up the five flights of stairs together.

SUN'S ECLIPSE VISIBLE HERE SATURDAY, 5:30

There will be a total eclipse of the sun Saturday afternoon that will be sivible to the most of the country as a partial eclipse. Coshocton will see this eclipse as partial Draw a line across the map of the United States from Astoria, Oregon to Orlando, Florida and the cities and towns along this line will be the cities and towns that will see the eclipse at totality.

From Coshocton about seventy-percent of the sun's disc will be covered by the moon The moon will eclipse the sun at 5:30 P M, and it will last till 7:24 P M; a little less than two hours.

For years astronomers all over the country at universit yand national observatories have been preparing to observe this eclipse. It is hoped by scientists that a great many new and important facts about eclipses will be learned by the use of more modern instruments than were used at the time of the last total eclipse of the sun visible in the United States

Private John H. Marks of Thornton, Ark., a little bearer, who took part in the fighting, in his peculiar way, paid high tribute to the fighting abilities of the marines

"We were in on the rush," said Marks. "Talk about football playing say our fellows gained a dozen yards every push and kept on going My but those buzzards from the navy (the marines) can shoot. All they wanted to do was squat down and blaze away I saw a lieutenant who was wounded keep on leading his men until he grew faint He refused to go to a dressing station He was hit a second time but stopped only long enough to put on a first aid bandage He was wounded a third time before he went to the hospital None of the wounds were serious But there were lots like him Our fellows just naturally took the wind out of the Germans and did not give them any chance to catch their breath It was just like the fighting in the civil war that I have read about Charging in the open is a regular walkaway for us."

CUBS WREST FIRST PLACE FROM GIANTS

(By Jack Veiock.)

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, JUNE 7 —Fred Mitchell and his Chicago Cubs have today reached their objective in the national league race

For the first time since the opening of the season the erstwhile pacemaking Giants have been torn from the lead and the Cubs stand in the first place by a margin of half a game. With these teams racing neck and neck and the Cincinnati Reds close behind them, the pennant hunt in the National is settling down to a real battle

Both the Cubs and Giants have suffered heavy blows in the loss of star players The drafting of Grover Alexander was a staggering blow to the Cubs The loss of Larry Doyle has apparently disorganized the Giants.

So far McGraws team has been unable to recover from the loss of Doyle But the Cubs minus Alenxader, are doing great guns. Fred Mitchell's uncanny ability to handle his pitchers and gallant work of Merkle, Deal and Paskert three veterans who are playing real baseball, has put the Cubs in the lead

The acquisition of Charles Hollacher, the New Cub shortstop, rounded out Chicago's infield combination and Mitchell has a strong club in every department

Might Be Important Industry.

In Burma thitsi is used as a varnish for woodwork to render cloth or paper waterproof, as in the manufacture of Burmese umbrellas, and to cover articles of wood or basket ware for domestic or religious use. Several kinds of Burmese lacquer ware are prepared with thitsi, such as the lacquered basketwork of Pagan, the Prome gold-lacquered ware, the mold [illegible] ware of Mandalay, and the Minbu varnished ware. Thitsi is also the cement used in making Burmese glass mosaics. It has been suggested that with the artistic ability of the Burmese and a raw material at hand which has proved equal to that used by Japanese craftsmen, a [illegible] larger lacquer industry might be developed in Burma than now exists.

Baboons Plague Farmers.

Hanging about the neighborhood of farmsteads and small settlements in South Africa baboons raid the fruit orchards and kill the sheep—first disposing of the sheepdogs. This last is an easy matter, for not even the most powerful mastiff would have a chance in combat with a creature such as a baboon larger and stronger, with mighty teeth and four hands to fight with. The only effective way to tackle baboons is to surround a bunch of them at night, wait until daybreak silently and shoot them down with rifles in the morning as they emerge from cover.

Alabama Editor Pays High Tribute To The Soldiers From Ohio

The following editorial was clipped from the Montgomery, Ala, Journal by a Coshocton boy at Camp Sheridan. It pays a high tribute to the manhood of the Buckeye boys who have been stationed at Montgomery for the past several months.

OHIO BOYS ARE GOING:

A great many of the Ohio boys encamped out at Camp Sheridan, have gone or are preparing to leave camp They came here about a year ago, when the cantonment was first located in this city and have been with us ever since They have been visited by their fathers, mothers, sweethearts and other relatives from the Buckeye state and many warm attachments have been formed between the soldier boy, their relatives and friends and the people of Montgomery

A finer body of men was never quartered on a people in time of war They compose the very flower of the young manhood of Ohio and have deported themselves like the gentlemen they are. It was the National Guard of Ohio before mustered into the regular service and that means that they were mostly volunteers, men who had joined the local military companies of the various towns of that state, which, as you know from our own town troops, is composed of the very best young men that each town and city can boast The military companies of the city of Ohio were social organizations as well as military, drilled to fight., and that accounts for the splendid personnel of the troops that have been among us

Thousands of these young soldiers have thronged our streets on Wednesdays and Saturdays, the days of the week they were permitted to come to the city, and a more gentlemanly set never walked the streets of the Cradle of the Confederacy The editor of the Journal has made it a point to watch the conduct of the young men and has yet to see an ungentlemanly act, a disrespectful glance at a lady, the least boisterousness or rowdyism. As they are leaving Montgomery for the front it affords the Journal a great deal of pleasure to state these facts, so that the fathers and mothers of the boys back in Ohio may know that their sons have acquitted themselves like the gentlemen that they are, while sojourning among us.

While here they have taken part in the socia land religious life of the city The homes of the people of Montgomery have bee nthrown open to them, with the result that several scores of Montgomery girls will make their homes in Ohio as the wives of these gallant men, after the war is over Many of them have attended the various churches to which they belong and some have made talks and taken a prominent part in the religious exercises of various religious organizations.

Among the greatest soldiers the world has ever produced have been religious men Chinese Gordon, Stonewall Jackson, Robert E Lee, Lord Roberts, Haig and Pershing are religious men and have left and are leaving their impress on the world The Journal believes that the men from Ohio, who visited the churches of the city and had the courage to stand up and tell of the faith that was in them, will make none the less efficient fighters. The surgeon who asks God's help before performing a dangerous operation is in the same fix that a geenral is, who takes a few moments on his knees before the opening of a battle, to ask the guidance of the Great Commander of the hosts of the world

It affords the Journal a great deal of pleasure to say a few complimentary words o fthe Ohio soldiers who have been with us as our guests, you might say, and we sincerely hope that our people have made as fine an impression on them as they have on us.

Here's hoping boys, that you may all come home, after having licked the Germans, and while we know this wish is an impossibility, still your Dixie friends here in Alabama all know that you will give a good account of yourselves on the battle fields of Flanders
